By John Rubens Smith

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from A Compendium of Picturesque Anatomy: Adapted to the Arts of Designing, Painting, Sculpture and Engraving on Four Folio Lithographic Plates, in Which Are Combined the Osteology and Myology of the Human Figure In each half diameter you see two other circles which thus quarter the total height according to the first grand line Of measurement, the upper quarter or diameter being through the base or broadest part of the breast, or, more properly, half way down the sternum or breast bone, as also through the arm-pits in front and profile figure, and near the ends of the shoulder blades in back View. The lower diameter through the knees, or junction of the leg and thigh bones, are alike in each. The next line of measurement for correcting in detail, consists of a scale of heads and faces; it being allowed by all painters and sculptors that a figure should be seven heads and half, or ten faces. A head is divided into four parts; three are given to a face, of which a nose is one third, and being one determinate...
