Rice, Mayor of Houston, Taxes: On the Commission Form of Government To demonstrate, I will cite an incident that happened several months ago. A gentleman, a non-resident of Houston, whose home was in a Western State, owned some property in our city, and the property had been recently taken into the city limits. Investigating his assess ment, he found that his property had been placed at a much higher valuation than that of his neighbors. Being a stranger, he. Called upon one of Houston leading attorneys and asked his advice how to proceed for relief. The at torney suggested that they step over to the Mayor s cirice and have the matter corrected. The owner of the land thought it would be wiser for the lawyer to get some of his friends to sign a petition to the Council, so that it would have some weight with the authorities. The attorney replied that this mode of pro cedure was entirely unnecessary, as Houston now had a business government. They called at my office, stated their mission. I sent for the tax wilector, and in an hour the stranger had his matter adjusted and his tax receipt in his pocket. The owner of the land said that if the case had been in his city it would have taken weeks for adjustmwt, on account of the red tape process in existence.
