A BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY OF EMINENT SCOTSMEN, VOL. 3 (CLASSIC REPRINT)

Forgotten Books. Paperback. Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 1.4in. Excerpt from A Biographical Dictionary of Eminent Scotsmen, Vol. 3 An immense quantity of public labour was thus brought under the superintendence of Mr. Macadam, by which he might have accumulated profits to an indefinite amount, while his character as a public benefactor would have remained untouched. But superior to every selfish consideration, he confined his services to superintendence, and nothing more for he thought that an engineer should never act as a contractor, because, where the offices are combined, the public was too often the loser that one man might be enriched. It would have been well also if this conscientious generosity had been reciprocated by our government towards such an upright, faith and useful servant. But this, we are sorry to add, was not the case. After having advanced many thousands of pounds from his own resources to expedite the works in which he was engaged for the public benefit, he received in compensation from government only in two instalments - a most inadequate return for his services, indently of his outlays. He thus might be said to have been rewarded with less than nothing. The honour of knighthood, indeed, was offered to him; but this, on account of his growing infirmities, he declined in favour of his son, the late Sir James Macadam, who prosecuted his fathers profession, with the superintendence of the roads around London.
